Amendments to the Cyprus Tax Laws to Promote Restructuring

In December 2015 the Cyprus tax laws were amended to exempt loan restructurings carried out in 2016 and 2017 from tax. The tax exemptions are aimed at facilitating and encouraging the restructuring of non-performing debt, which is the biggest issue currently facing Cyprus banks and the greatest obstacle to economic recovery. The laws affected are the Income Tax Law, the Capital Gains Tax Law, the Special Defence Contribution Law, the Stamp Duty Law, the VAT Law, the Collection of Taxes Law and the Department of Lands and Surveys (Fees and Charges) Law.¹

In all of these laws a new definition of the term “restructuring” has been introduced, referring to the direct or indirect sale and transfer of immovable property and transfer of rights under a sale contract deposited with the Department of Lands and Surveys, between one or more borrowers, debtors or guarantors regarding the same credit facility or debt on the one hand and one or more creditors on the other that occurs in 2016 or 2017 in order to reduce or repay credit facilities or loans or debts granted by one or more licensed credit institutions operating in Cyprus.

The effect of the amendments is to exempt any benefit, profit or gain arising in the context of restructuring from income tax, and to exempt any gain arising from the disposal of property in the context of a restructuring from capital gains tax. In the context of restructuring, a lender disposing of a property or taking possession of it for the lender’s own use is deemed to acquire it at the value attributed to it for the purpose of the restructuring and the disposal proceeds in the hands of the lender are reduced by any amount returned to the borrower. In the event of part of the proceeds subsequently being returned to the borrower, any tax exemption granted to the borrower may be liable to clawback: in this event the lender is responsible for withholding the appropriate amount and paying it to the tax authorities.

The amendment to the Special Contribution for Defence Law provides that accounting profits arising in the context of restructuring are not subject to the deemed distribution provisions of the law, which require Special Contribution for Defence tax to be paid on undistributed profits after a specified period. However, in the event of any part of the disposal value being refunded to the borrower, then this amount is included in the accounting profit of the borrower in the tax year in which the amount was refunded and is subject to the deemed distribution provisions.

The amendments to the Stamp Duty Law provide that any contracts, mortgages or other documents used within the context of a restructuring are exempt from stamp duty.

The amendments to the VAT Law and the Collection of Taxes Law provide that any property acquired by a lender in the context of a restructuring remains subject to any existing charges or encumbrances, and that the tax authorities may require the borrower to replace any such encumbrances with equivalent security over another property. The tax authorities are given discretion to enter into a negotiated agreement with the borrower to settle any outstanding taxes in order to allow the discharge of any security.

The Department of Lands and Surveys (Fees and Charges) Law already provided that no fees or charges should be levied for transfer or registration of immovable property in the context of a restructuring and the only change to that law is the insertion of the new definition.
